   - Discuss fees/rates for the different means of transportation
   - Compare means of transportation of the TR with the United States

2. Discuss rental cars. This task will include:
   - Name types of vehicles in the TR
   - Identify car model in the TR
   - Know the various parts of the car in the TR
   - Tell the clerk what type of car you want
   - Ask the clerk what type of fuel is required for your car
   - Rent a car

3. Identify military vehicles. This task will include:
   - Name military vehicles
   - Identify vehicle parts

4. Discuss motor pool activities. This task will include:
   - Specify types of vehicles for specific activities
   - Discuss vehicle maintenance activities
   - Discuss advantages and disadvantages of certain types of military vehicles

Introduction
Module 4 Lesson 7

Tip of the Day
Although Bangkok's □□□□ (canals) are disappearing fast, an elaborate network of waterways continue to connect many parts of the city. With a bit of planning, many of the worst traffic jams can be avoided by taking the boats. River buses go up and down the Chao Phraya River with amazing reliability and regularity.

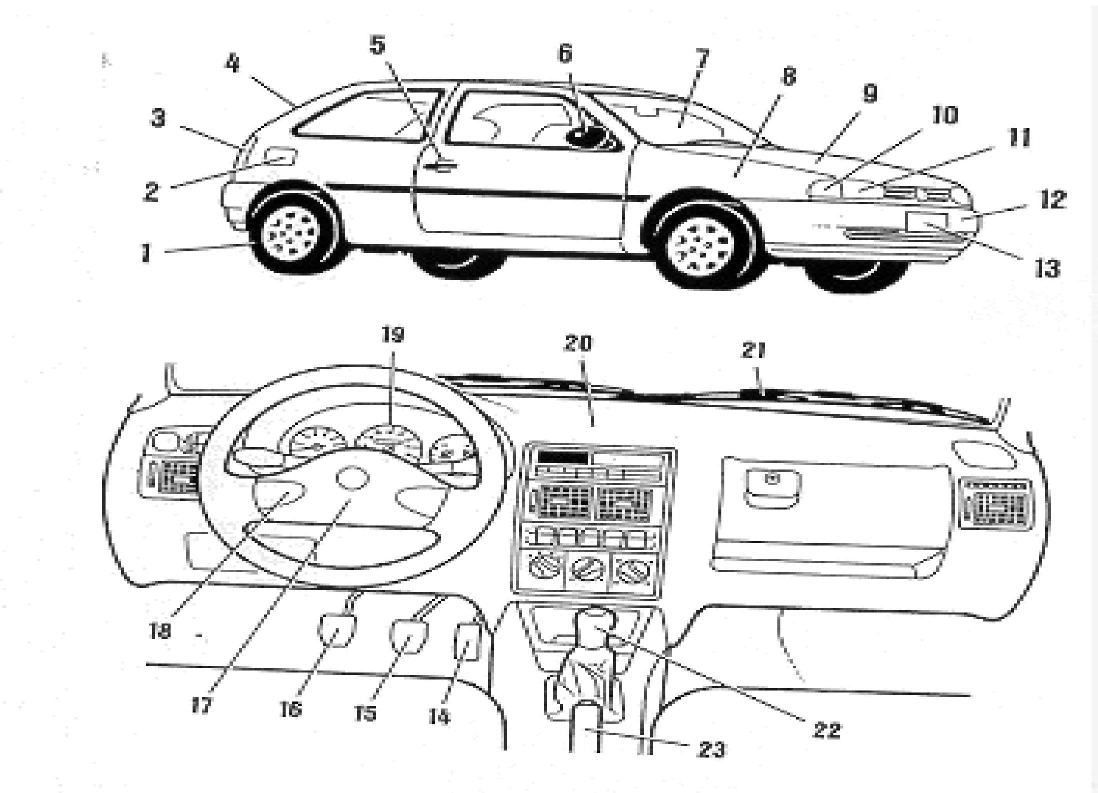
11.Head light □□□□□□
12.Bumper □□□□□□□□□
13.License plate □□□□□□□□□□□ □□□□



Tip of the Day
Steering wheels on almost all vehicles in Thailand are located on the right side because people drive on the left side of the street. Although traffic signs, such as stop and yield signs are posted everywhere, extreme caution should be exercised because not too many people observe them.

Exercise 8
Together with your partner, practice saying what is wrong with your car. Use the information from the table below and mix and match. Add [illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible]/[illegible] as applicable.

Tip of the Day
Renting a car is as easy in Thailand as in the United States. In fact, most major American car rental agencies operate in Thailand and the rental procedure is about the same. The only main difference is that in Thailand a driver is always available with the vehicle.

Exercise 10 (Pair Work)
Take turns playing the different roles. Use the table of cars and prices to develop your dialogue.

At a rental agency: A- customer
B- salesperson

A. Say you want to rent a car.
B. Ask what type?
A. State model and options.
B. Say that you have that model but it is not available at this time.
A. Ask for a model between 33-38 dollars. Also ask if mileage is included?
B. Mention two between those prices and say that mileage varies depending on The model.
A. Pick one of the options and ask about insurance.
B. Say that the insurance is $5 extra on the daily rate, but included on the fixed price.
A. Ask if you need to return car to original location.
B. Say no.
A. Ask for fixed prices.
B. Quote prices per day, week and monthly on the model he chose.
A. Pick the weekly rate. And ask if you can pay with credit card.
B. Say yes and that you need to see two types of identification.
A. Pay and ask for the keys.
B. Give the customer the keys and tell him where the car is parked.

□□□□ is a loan-word from English meaning ‘to check’. It is widely used colloquially as much as the word □□□□.

Example: □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□
Please check the oil for me also.

□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□
□□□□□□□□□
Before long-distance driving, engine should be completely checked.

□□□□□□□ may mean oil, gasoline, or grease depending on the context. If a specific is needed, this word is then qualified with another appropriate word.

Example:

□□□□□□□□□□□□□□	engine oil
□□□□□□□□□□□□□□	gasoline
□□□□□□□□□□□	brake fluid
□□□□□□□□□□□□	diesel oil

□□□□□ is the contracted form of □□□□□□□□□□□□ meaning ‘diesel fuel’. This word is used interchangeably with its other variant □□□□□

□□□□ is a loan-word from the English meaning ‘brake’ and may be used interchangeably with the genuine Thai word □□□□□□□.

□□□□□□□ literally means ‘honeycomb’. With regard to the automobile, it means ‘radiator’. The other Thai word for ‘radiator’ which is used more widely is ‘□□□□□□□□’

□□□□□□ is another loan-word from English meaning ‘to start’ (engine only). To say ‘The engine won’t start.’ in Thai requires a special construction. It is □□□□□□□/□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ and the positive statement is □□□□□□□□□□

TRANSPORTATION

Railroads: Main lines (4,000 kilometers of track) originating in Ba ngkok run to national borders with Malaysia in the south, Cambodi a in the east, and Laos in the northeast and a northern line goes to Chiang Mai. Railroads remained important in 1987 for transport of bulk commodities and passengers despite heavy inroads by truck and bus transport.

Roads: Primary network of national highways (20,000 kilometers), more than 90 percent paved. Secondary system of provincial roads (more than 24,000 kilometers)--many impassable in rainy season--tie provincial towns and population centers to national the highway system. Village roads, tracks, and footpaths totaled between 40,000 and 60,000 kilometers. Motor vehicles registered in 1984 included 688,000 automobiles; (most in the Bangkok metropolitan area), 600,000 commercial vehicles, and nearly 2 million motorcycles.

Inland Waterways: Extensive network of waterways formed by rivers and canals of the central plain and Chao Phraya Delta carry passengers and extensive quantities of rice and other freight. It is navigable by barge to Uttaradit in the rainy season and to Nakhon Sawan in dry season.

Maritime Shipping: Bangkok, preeminent port, handled about 98 percent of imports, 65 percent of exports, and about 40 percent of coastal traffic in the mid-1980s. There are some thirty small ports along the Gulf of Thailand and the Andaman Sea. Merchant fleet in international service in 1985 totaled about 100 freighters, tankers, and bulk carriers. An unknown number of small coastal craft supported trade with Malaysia and Singapore.

Civil Aviation: Domestic air service to about twenty cities and towns throughout the country and also flights to Penang, Vientiane, and Hanoi in late 1980s. International service provided by Thai Airways International (THAI) from Bangkok and Chiang Mai to Asia, Middle East, Europe, North America, and Australia. About forty international airlines also served Thailand. Bangkok is the main air traffic center for Asia-Europe flights.
